

Fondo Elena Moroni for Oncology, Torino, Italy Enrico Anglesio Prize, 2022 Virtual

Rules and Procedures

Since 2006, the Enrico Anglesio Prize (EAP) has been awarded to a young researcher (35 years of age, or less) who has prepared an original work in the domain of Epidemiology and Cancer Registration. From 2006 to 2021, over 190 young researchers contested, and 28 have been declared Enrico Anglesio Laureate (or Laureate of the two satellite Special Prizes awarded for the 2020 and 2021 editions) at the GRELL or at the IACR round.

In years 2020 and 2021, with the cancellation of the scientific conferences in person, where the Prize was awarded, the Fondo Elena Moroni maintained this appointment with a new at distance formula that keeps the spirit of competitiveness, not only in the scientific quality, but also in the way the message is delivered, and results are communicated.

For year 2022, the annual meeting of the IACR will be held virtually the 8th-10th November and the Fondo Elena Moroni will keep for the EAP the virtual format experimented in the previous two years.

EAP 2022 Virtual. Two steps: Dissertation (long abstract) and Video

Please note that the contender must be the first author (unique first - no shared first authorship allowed) of the dissertation, and the presenter of the video clip.

1) DISSERTATION

Manuscripts must be in English and prepared according to the following format similar to a short article.

- a) 1000 words max – references, tables and figures (respectively 10, 2, 2 max) excluded
- b) Manuscripts have to be structured in Introduction, Methods, Results and Discussion

2) VIDEO PRESENTATIONS (8-minutes-long and rapid-fire)

A short list of finalists will be selected by the Jury of the Enrico Anglesio Prize.

Those candidates accepted in the final row will prepare an eight minutes video with the presentation of their work.

A further” rapid-fire” two-minutes-long video will have to be prepared by selected finalists that will be invited to take an active role during the Award Ceremony.

The finalists are free to decide the style of their video presentations. Ideally it should mix images of the candidate presenting and slides with figures and tables.

The winner will be awarded a 500 € prize. If the winning work is published, with the Prize Winner as first author, within one year on a scientific journal with impact factor, the prize amount will be multiplied upon publication. The basic amount of the Prize is doubled to 1000 Euro if the work is published on a Journal with impact factor over 4.00; it is multiplied by three (reaching 1500 Euro) if the work is published on a journal with impact factor over 8.00. The Enrico Anglesio Prize must be mentioned in the acknowledgments of the article. The rule of multiplication upon publication apply only to the Enrico Anglesio main prize, and not to the Satellite Special Prizes, unless otherwise specified

One year for publication means that 365 days is the maximum time allowed between the date of the award ceremony and the date of the acceptance letter from the journal to which the paper has been successfully submitted.

Both the basic amount of the Prize and its multiplication when the case, are payable to the winner within the mid of December of the corresponding year.

The prize award and the title of the research will be successively announced through the websites and the newsletter of various organizations and some scientific journals
